Kids' neat but clean look may replace hair code

Canyon schools' controversial dress code is likely to be rewritten into fewer specifics and more general statements, said Tom Keeling, president of the school board.

Neat, clean and not disruptive will about cover it, he said, with the determination of what is neat and clean left up to the individual principals and teachers.

"It just about has to be left up to the principal," Keeling said. "But from what we've read and the correspondence we've had on it, we think we'll be in compliance with that."

A federal funding program, Title IV, prohibits sexual discrimination and different hair length rules for boys and girls is considered by Health, Education and Welfare department to be discriminatory.

Failure to comply with the requirements of Title IV can result in loss of all federal funds to the school district.

Federal funds for the coming year amount to $65,716 in educational programs plus the reimbursement for part of the lunchroom expenses, district business manager Ronnie Wood said.

The school board is scheduled to hear a complete report from administrative assistant W.V. McAlpin on the self-evaluation required by Title IV at the next board meeting Aug. 17. A statement of compliance must be signed by late September.

But registration begins the morning of Aug. 17, which left unanswered the question, would boys whose hair cuts did not conform to last years' code be turned away at registration?

"I haven't the slightest idea," high school principal John Sommer said Thursday.

Junior high principal said Thursday, he didn't know either but hoped that a decision would be made by registration.

Contacted in Irving, new Canyon superintendent Dr. Sam Thompson, said students would have to abide by the present policy until the school board changed that policy.

Irving schools have a five-paragraph dress code that requires students to be neat, clean and modest and to wear shoes, an office worker at Irving High said Friday.

Students who participate in elective extra-curricular activities such as athletics and band must observe a more stringent policy. Athlete's hair was described as "pretty short" and band members of necessity must have short hair or have it pinned tightly to their heads to wear the headgear.

Keeling said that none of the candidates for school superintendent interviewed for the post here, came from districts that had a dress code.

Keeling observed that most of the furor in the rest of the country over long hair for boys had died. Canyon, he said, is late to adopt trends and is late to abandon them.

Board members who went recently to New York City to try to upgrade Canyon schools bond rating were surprised, he said, by the shorter, fuller hair styles there.

Keeling said the Canyon board could probably fight to keep the dress code for another two years until HEW disposed of a backlog of complaints with other districts.

"But I don't see any need for that," Keeling said.

Keeling said he would recommend to McAlpin to recommend to the principals to require students to have clean, non-disruptive dress and hair length.

Umbarger water project waiting for final plans

By PAT ALTHEN

Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) officials are waiting for final plans of a proposed water system for Umbarger.

Amarillo official Thomas Cheshire said Friday that final plans from engineer Bill McMorries are all that's needed to submit the project to the state for approval.

Plans for the system began in 1970. The project will replace residential wells with a central water system.

Until plans are turned over to the Amarillo office by the engineers, no further action can be taken, according to FmHA official Bill Lawson of Temple. He said, "We're just waiting for the forms."

FmHA sent a letter of commitment for the Umbarger project to Amarillo June 10, but the agreement has not yet been returned.

Cheshire said McMorries thought it would take 30-45 days to draw up the plans, and it has been about that long. He is expecting to receive the final plans from the Amarillo engineer within the next week or two.

The much-needed water system has been threatened by problems.

One trouble spot revolves around estimates for construction costs of the system. FmHA has allocated a total of $116,000, including a $74,000 loan and a $42,000 grant for construction.

McMorries' estimate was $150,000, $34,000 more than the federal agency's proposal.

Commenting on the estimate, Lawson said McMorries' figure may be premature and his system is perhaps more ambitious than what the people of Umbarger need.

He believes the FmHA proposal is a reasonable amount for this type project.

Another hold-up has been obtaining easement agreement signatures from the forty-one customers who would be affected by the project.

FmHA requires agreements for every potential customer prior to approval of funding. Louis Raef, who is heading efforts to obtain funding, said this week one or two more agreements have been signed.

However, this still puts the project only halfway in getting the necessary signatures, with the late September deadline nearing.

Raef expects to obtain the easement agreement from the Umbarger school board Aug. 17 at a trustee meeting and hopes signatures will be forthcoming.

Efforts to fund the system began six years ago. Umbarger residents have raised nearly $10,000 to date and formed a special water district to run the system.

Cities, Pioneer clash at hearing

Panhandle cities, including Canyon, and Pioneer Natural Gas Company clashed this week in Austin over the 100 percent cost of gas pass through, while, in Amarillo. Pioneer's president reported net income nearly doubled from last year.

The cities and Pioneer each had their say at statewide hearings conducted by the Railroad Commission in Austin.

The hearings were only round one, however, in the disagreement between Pioneer and the cities over the "cost of gas adjustment." Another hearing, requested by Pioneer will review the gas costs as to correctness and appropriateness of the methods used by the company in purchasing gas. That hearing is set for Sept. 14 in Austin.

The issue is the cost of gas adjustment, which allows Pioneer to pass along to the customer the entire cost to Pioneer of buying gas.

M.D. LaGrone, a Pioneer senior vice president, told the Railroad Commission that "Pioneer would have been considerably hampered, if not foreclosed, in obtaining adequate new gas supplies and keeping what it had unless it was able to pass on monthly the increased purchased gas cost to its customers."

Bill McMorries, an Amarillo engineer representing 17 Texas cities, including Canyon, contended to the commission that allowing the utility to automatically increase the cost of gas adjustment, amounted to a contract plus costs arrangement and took away any incentive to save money.

That arrangement lessened Pioneer's accountability and ever further reduced the incentive to save. McMorries said.

Another factor of the problem, McMorries said, is that the gas company buys some of its gas from its own subsideries.

Pioneer officials told the commission that on the company's West Texas system, their average cost of gas was 97.60 cents, which they said was one of the larger gas companies in Texas. Pioneer vice president W.N. Lampe, introduced a survey that showed customers more concerned about adequate supplies than about price.

At the same time officials were testifying to the Railroad Commission in Austin, the Pioneer board of directors met in Amarillo.

There, K.B. "Tex" Watson, company president, declared a quarterly dividend of 30 cents a share for stockholders and

A western painting by Carl Smith will be given away this winter to benefit the Palo Duro Hospital Auxiliary's project to purchase a heart monitor for the hospital. Bryanetta Collins displays the oil before putting it on exhibit at First National Bank. Auxiliary members will take donations for the heart monitor until Dec. 15 when the painting will be given away. Smith's work is exhibited at Sagebrush Galleries and the frame for this painting was done by Bill Sternenberg.

Kansas City bound delegates watchful

The Republican platform committee is being watched closely by Randall County GOP delegates who will leave for the convention in Kansas City Friday.

"We will almost be able to tell from the platform how things are shaping up for the convention," said Nadine Gregg, Randall County Republican chairman and an alternate delegate to the convention.

Mrs. Gregg supports Ronald Reagan and says that the platform committee, and the rules committee, as well as the national chairmanship are dominated by workers for President Gerald Ford.

She expects platform fights on at least two issues:

"The liberals are going to buck us on the Panama Canal issue at least and on the women's liberation. We already know there is a strong push from the women's liberation group," she said.

Nevertheless, she said, she

Juvenile offenders mostly 16 white

The majority of youngsters referred to the juvenile probation authorities last year are white boys between 14 and 17 years of age, statistics compiled by Harold Mann, juvenile probation officer show.

Of 259 youths seen by juvenile workers, 168 were white males. The most common age was 16, with 127 youths seen, but ages 14, 15, and 17 also showed marked increases.

Of the 259 youths seen, 231 were white, 21 were Mexican-American and 7 were black, according to the statistics.

51 percent of the youths were from broken or split homes while 49 percent were living at home with both natural parents.

Three-quarters of the individuals contacted were male, as compared to only 25 percent being females.

From a docket of 120, 50 were on official probation, two were placed in a public institution and

Boom slowing

Applications for building permits have been slow this past month, said code enforcement officer Jerry Lehnick.

Permits were issued for two residences, a building adjoining a residence, alterations to another residence, and a car port.

Permits issued during July amounted to $176,700. This puts the total for the year to date at $4,502,200, compared to $1,839,000 for this time last year.

New residences account for most of the total, with Hunsley Hills and Westgate additions adding a large percentage of the new homes under construction in Canyon.

So far this year, construction has started on 95 residences, according to Lehnick. That makes the total amount on residences at $3,456,750, with the average price per home over $36,300.

Lehnick also noted that builders are expected to start a number of other residences in the

Equalization board Monday

A comparatively short agenda is planned for the Randall County commissioners Monday.

The commissioners court will meet as a board of equilization at 2 p.m. in the commissioners courtroom.

They are also scheduled to hear from Paul Gross the appointment of a new county farm agent and to formally appoint Bill Tirey a county auditor. The Canyon CPA was chosen last week by district judges Bryan Poff and George Dowlen.

The contract for reappraisal between the county and Southwestern Appraisal Company will be discussed.

The commissioners meeting will begin at 1 p.m. on the second floor of the courthouse.

Canyon coach combines basketball and evangelism

By JERRY GUNTER

B.B. Kendrick, junior high school counselor and head boys' basketball coach at Canyon High recently returned from Central and South America where he toured six countries as part of a missionary organization that uses athletics as a forum for their evangelism.

The group, Sports Ambassadors of Santa Clara, Calif., toured Panama, Peru, Nicaragua, El Savador, Guatamala and Columbia on a six week tour.

On an average, four days were spent in each country with the exception of Panama where 15 days were spent in seven different cities. It was a joint good will tour and missionary endeavor.

Kendrick said that the group tried to create a position where they would be invited again. At halftime of the basketball games, the players put on a program consisting of songs and choruses in Spanish, each player giving a testimony of Jesus Christ. Each night, two different players would talk and hand out literature in the form of a game program. In the middle of the program was "Four Spiritual Laws," a plan of salvation.

Kendrick said that everyone had to earn his own money to attend the trip. This provided for the food, motels and literature that was bought. Each team member had to raise $2,150. Kendrick said that about six weeks before he left on the trip that he went to various civic clubs and churches around the area asking for donations.

Players were picked through application and references which included one from the player's own college and high school coaches. A committee from the Overseas Crusade, who has an office in Santa Clara, Calif., then picks the players.

Ten players and head coach, Hack Bowen of San Jose, went on the trip. All of the players had either finished their eligibility in college or had one year left in college. Coach Bowen had certain responsibilities which ended ' .s visit after four weeks. Kendrick coached the team for the remainder of the tour.

At each place visited, the players exchanged tie tacks and

Cadets raise WT rating from the pits

Eleven West Texas State University students who attended Reserve Officers' Training Corps Advanced camp at Ft. Riley, Kan. this summer did an outstanding job, according to Lt. Col. Charles L. Laakso, professor of military science.

Camp performance improved substantially over last year, when 10 cadets from WT placed the school 115 out of 131 colleges with students attending the camp.

The unofficial standing of this year's group was 55th out of 131 schools. WT's objective for the 1976 summer camp was to finish in the top 50 per cent, said Laakso.

Since the top 50 per cent of 131 schools would be about 65, the students exceeded the goal by a significant margin.

Laakso attributes the success to two factors: (1) the cadets went to camp well prepared this year, and (2) they went with the attitude that they would do the best they could.

Preparation for advanced camp began last August, when the military science department received the results of the 1975 camp and planned for improvements in training the cadets.

The instructors analyzed the results to see what areas WT students were particularly weak in during the '75 advanced camp.

They found ratings of the students low in orienteering, PT tests, and cadet leadership performance.

Cadets who attended last year's advanced camp were highly deficient in orienteering events, ranking 63 out of 64. Orienteering includes map reading skills and use of a compass.

They fared better in PT tests (basic physical fitness). Out of a possible low of 64, the students were 45th in the ranking on PT tests.

Cadets of last year were also low in ratings for becoming recondo qualified — 63 out of 64. Laakso pointed out this category includes all of the physical activities.

Water survival, rapelling, the "slide-for-life," obstacle course and other activities are a part of recondo training.

FROM THE CANYON RIM

Abraham Lincoln prior to his nomination said he has "tasted" the Presidency and it tasted good.

Why a man could ever want it is a mystery to those of us who have never breathed that heady and rarefied atmosphere of power. It frustrates and kills those who hold it.

Often it discredits because to hold it a President often must tread the Machiavellian fringes of hell itself.

We now have three ambitious men who have "tasted" the Presidency and it tastes good.

It was not surprising that Ronald Reagan compromised himself in picking Schweiker for a possible running mate. He hoped to gain enough liberal delegates to get the nomination.

Reagan wants to be President and he no doubt remembers one of Lyndon Johnson's famous quotations: "If you don't get elected you ain't no statesman."

It appears that President Ford already has tapped John Connally for the second spot.

I notice that H.M. Baggerly, writing in The Tulia Herald, is extremely critical of the President for his apparent choice. Baggerly just doesn't like Connally — not because of the governonr's political beliefs but because he now is a Republican.

Mr. Baggerly doesn't see anything wrong with Connally's role in the Box 13 vote scandal which sent Lyndon Johnson to the Senate illegally in 1948. He is not critical of Connally's part in the Bay of Pigs debacle as John Kennedy's secretary of the Navy.

Connally was a Democrat then and in the eyes of Mr. Baggerly could do no wrong. He's a Republican now and can do no right.

Baggerly pounced on poor old Frank Baker who runs the paper down at Fort Stockton. He quoted Baker as saying the people of his area, oil conservatives, wouldn't support Carter for President.

Baggerly said the people of that area wouldn't support Jesus Christ if he run on the Democratic ticket.

That might be true. I don't know but I firmly believe that Baggerly WOULD support Satan himself if he ran on the Democratic ticket.

H.M. is back up to his old density plus tricks. He's already come out for Jimmy Carter before anyone knows a great deal about the former governor from Plains, Georgia. He's already locked in, even if the man from the Peach state turns out to be a child molester. H.M. is stuck with him.

I concede that Carter probably is going to be the next President unless something radically unusual happens to prevent it.

Harper Magazine, a publication which historically has little love for anything to the right of Norman Thomas, paints a grim picture of the man from Plains.

It portrays him as a man no one really knows, a loner, a brooder in the dark who connives in solitude on means to rectify the mistaken thinking of those who disagree with him.

Carter comes as a "born again" Moses to lead the people out of the wilderness. He shrewdly gauged the disgust and distrust of his fellow countrymen for the present establishment of both parties.

With little visible support, he went to the electorate with a promise of cleansing. He hasn't even had to make his position clear on anything yet.

Not even those nearest to him seem to know much about him.

As Winston Churchill said about Russia, he is an enigma wrapped in a riddle.

In my opinion only Ronald Reagan has any chance at all in the arena with Jimmy Carter and Reagan's chance would be slim. Gerald Ford has no chance at all no matter who he has on the ticket with him.

James Reed

Don Rhoades

Sonny Sanders

Peter Peterson

What do YOU think?

In a recent public opinion poll area citizens were asked the following question: "What do you think John Connally would do for a Ford ticket?"

Mrs. Morgan Jones of Abilene said, "I think it wouldn't be best for Ford. I think Baker of Tennessee or Simon would be better."

Charles Jackson of Canyon said, "I would have liked to have seen Ford and Reagan together. I don't think there's a chance for that now."

James Reed of Canyon replied, "I think Conally would do what he could. He would help Ford."

Don Rhoades of Amarillo said, "I don't think Connally would hurt Carter any. I don't know if it would hurt Ford anymore. Either way though, it won't help Ford."

Merle Kilpatrick of O'Donnell said, "I think he would help in Texas and in the south. I don't know about the eastern part though."

Sonny Sanders a WT student from Pampa commented, "I don't know if it would help Ford. Connally was with Kennedy when he got shot and everyone might look down on him for that."

Peter Peterson a teacher at West Texas State said, "I think Connally would add some geographic balance to the ticket. He could perhaps offset the apparent appeal of Carter in the south and southwest. Connally is a very able campaigner and would help Ford there. But I think he has serious liabilities. His wheeler-dealer image and unexplained connection with the milk scandal could develop into an issue."

Commissioner Paul Lindsey is to be commended for trying to defend us against the theft of some $300,000 of our money — in addition to the higher taxes the "experts" would levy on us (ask the taxpayers in Hale and Deaf Smith Counties what those "experts" have done to them).

It takes courage to hold fast to one's concept of right when action brings persecution and condemnation.

Our Founding Fathers risked their all to give us a free nation. If we are not willing to fight to keep it free, the chains encircling us will eventually be too strong to be broken.

Our world

Protection is needed from ourselves

By ANN BROWN

The courageous framers of our Constitution spent many weary months constructing the document that is still recognized as a legal masterpiece.

It was not enemies without or hostile savages within that our founding fathers feared. The cautious months dedicated to the constitution were an all out effort to protect us from our own government.

Every passing year offers additional proof that the founders' fears were justified. Their enemies without were conquered, and the Indians were contained but the government is eating us alive.

Confiscatory inheritance taxes are destroying family farms and business firms.

Federal meddlers have almost destroyed the educational process in our public schools.

Government intervention has distressed communities, and set neighbor against neighbor, race against race, and is trying to set sex against sex.

In addition to taking the biggest bite of our income for taxes, government regulations demand endless labor spent on frustrating reports that add nothing to the nation's welfare or economy.

One major oil corporation reports almost 35,000 employees occupied entirely with government regulations. This labor adds only to the price of their products. And who pays?

In spite of the safeguards built into our Constitution, nine old men have ripped it apart, and determined that it means whatever they say it means.

What the Supreme Court is doing to the nation, lower courts are doing to business: The protection written into our Constitution has been discarded.

Myron Dubain, chairman and president of Fireman's Fund American Insurance Companies, told the Western Association of Insurance Brokers assembled in San Francisco that unless we get some legal reforms "we are headed toward nothing less than the economic breakdown of our society."

Dubain likened the courts to gambling places where the odds favor consumers against business. The medical malpractice has received the most publicity, he said, but no business can protect itself from consumer lawsuits.

In a case documented by Travelers Insurance Company of Hartford, a worker sped up the operation of his machine by removing a safety device. The machine malfunctioned and caused an accident.

He sued the manufacturer for $2 million — and won. The court held the manufacturer should have provided a second safety device to prevent the removal of the first one.

A woman was horribly burned when she leaned into her oven and her nightgown caught fire. She couldn't remember where she bought the gown — so she sued the oven manufacturer. She won $650,000.

One million liability suits were filed by consumers last year, an increase of 83% over 1974 and 1,000% increase in 10 years.

There seems to be little we can do about the Supreme Court, but juries can stop predatory lawyers and scheming consumers from preying on honest producers.

And perhaps we can't do much about Washington, but local school boards and commissioners courts could hold the line on local taxes — the most important place of all.

Letter to the editor

Bully for Texas

To the Editor:

Recently, my family and I had the privilege of spending a week end in your lovely city and attending a performance of "TEXAS."

I must say I was a bit awed by the play and the response of the audience to it. I've considered myself loyal to my native state, Oklahoma, but I've never seen anything like the patriotism displayed by the Texans at that performance.

I tried to pinpoint the difference in those Texans and others from other states and finally my husband hit upon the right word — pride. Never have I heard a Texan put his state down. You must instill this in your youngsters from birth.

Whatever, I was proud to be a part of that audience and it has made me re-evaluate my feelings and loyalties. I've learned from Texans how to be proud.

Thank you very much.

Sincerely,
Judy Moon

Time's changing

Farmers weren't the only folks who rejoiced at the rain.

City dwellers with nothing more than a parched lawn and maybe a garden were glad to see the free moisture.

A dry summer and increased water rates have made the maintenance of a green lawn something of a luxury. Water bills for the past two months have scaled unthinkable heights.

According to records kept by the city water department, some families used more than 200,000 gallons of water last month and paid water bills of $150.

It is common to find families using 70,000 to 80,000 gallons a month.

The concept of cheap, plentiful drinking water has been jolted by the realities of this area. Water is no longer plentiful and is certainly not cheap.

It is apparent that some changes in customs are going to be required. Expanses of green lawn are likely to be reduced to smaller strips. More use of rocks, cactus, bark chips and paving will probably become more popular.

Townhouses and condominiums may nearly replace the single family home.

Some alteration of living styles are almost inevitable if the population continues to grow and the water supply continues to shrink.

This summer's high water bills may just be the beginning of an era in which we learn to cope with shortages of vital elements. — L.T.

Help wanted

The school board is hoping for some help from the community as it constructs a six-court complex of tennis courts near the high school and junior high.

The school courts, which will also be open for public use, are to be just the bare bones economy models. They won't have such extras as lights, wind screens, or practice backboards.

But board members have suggested publicly that community tennis players and perhaps the city parks and recreation board, might like to ante up for extras.

The architect is including in his plans the preliminary work such as heavier poles to support windscreens to make the frills easier to install later.

Donations to the parks fund, either for tennis or anything else, have not been overwhelming. But with the basic courts soon to be a reality, perhaps tennis buffs and others interested in recreation for the community will add the extras. — L.T.

TEXAS a treat for conference

Triticale firm is open

The Kershen Triticale Company, after six years of preparatory work, has opened business at 506 Third Avenue in Canyon.

The company will specialize in a mix of several varieties of triticale for grazing purposes, Hy-G brand, blended to suit the area in which it is grown. It will also handle certified seed, flour, and triticale exports.

A working agreement with Dr. B. Chas. Jenkins of the Jenkins Foundation for Research, has been reached for the testing and the franchising of new varieties. Several lines of Jenkins wheats also will be handled.

Ron Kershen of Kershen Triticale said, "We work with several varieties of mixed triticale for livestock grazing cattle." The idea of blending several varieties of triticale for grazing began while studying the results from Dr. Jenkins' and Texas A&M's forage plots in 1970. Since that time, the company has learned which types to mix and how to manage the grazing.

The processing and storing of grains of triticale is done at the George Warner Seed Company in Hereford and at the Texas Triumph Seed Company in Ralls.

Bernard Hartman of Umbarger is helping Kershen with running the company.

I came to WT because it has the major I want.

THE WAY UP WT

Enroll at West Texas State University August 27-28.

Hi, I'm Byron, and I'm here at West Texas State University because I'm majoring in industrial distribution. West Texas State has one of only four such programs in the United States. Once I graduate, there should be many good-paying jobs in sales and distribution of industrial products open to me.

And I know that WT's small classes let the professors care about my education.

Dr. Jack Walker of Canyon, takes time out of his busy schedule to talk with two of the Amarillo Speech and Hearing Center's young students.

Walker heads fund drive

Dr. Jack Walker, head of the department of speech at West Texas State University, and chairman of the board of the Amarillo Speech and Hearing Center is now busy campaigning for funds to build a new 1.2 million dollar speech, hearing, and language complex in the Amarillo Medical Center.

The present facility is a potpourri of three houses, a garage, and a store — all integrated into a single unit.

The Amarillo Area Foundation has donated three acres of land to the center at the Amarillo Medical Center.

Walker, a long time resident of Canyon, has been on the Board of the Center since 1972 and has served as chairman since January 1976. "If you want something done and done well, ask a busy man to do it," was the sentiment of Wales Madden, Jr., general campaign chairman of the efforts of the Speech and Hearing Center, who asked Walker to head up the In-Family solicitation division of the campaign.

Walker has played a major role in raising the $400,000 that have presently been pledged to this project to date. He expressed hope that even though he is not directly involved in the Canyon division of the project that citizens of Canyon will do their share to make the new Amarillo Speech, Hearing, and Language Center a reality.

Anyone wishing to make a contribution to the new building fund may mail their donations to the Speech and Hearing Campaign Office at 101 East Third, Suite 209, Amarillo, Texas or call 372-2346.

Ottawa, Illinois High School bandsmen sold 4,080 pounds of salt water taffy to help finance their 1976 summer tour which includes a stop and performance next week end in Canyon, Texas. The 78 member high school band will be presented in concert here August 15 at 7:30 p.m. in the Canyon High School auditorium. Canyon Band Parents and Canyon Kiwanis Club is co-sponsoring the local visit which will include a tour of Palo Duro Canyon, and overnight visits in city homes. Anyone interested in providing overnight lodging August 15 along with meals is encouraged to contact CHS band director, J.W. King, at either the school or his home.

Stoker back from England, Scotland

After a month's visit in England and Scotland, Dr. and Mrs. Fred Stoker have returned to Canyon.

In Scotland they visited eleven schools and two teachers' colleges as a part of Dr. Stoker's study of open-plan schools in Great Britain.

Three years ago the couple visited schools in England as the first phase of the study. Along with visiting schools, there was time to see much of the area's lovely scenery and interesting sites.

In Scotland they drove along beautiful Loch Ness, searching for traces of "Nessie," the famous monster. A ferry boat took them through high waves to the islands of Mull and Iona, ancient burial place of Scottish kings, including MacBeth and Duncan.

They enjoyed seeing the homes of Sir Walter Scott, Robert Burns, and Robert Louis Stevenson, as well as many castles and sites connected with Scottish history. A highlight for Betty was dinner, medieval style — no knives and forks, in fourteenth century Langley Castle near the Roman Wall, built by Hadrian.

In London, the Stokers enjoyed museums and galleries and a number of plays. One afternoon was spent at Wimbledon where they saw many of the top tennis stars in semi-final matches. This was a special treat for Dr. Stoker, a tennis enthusiast.

On the Fourth of July they joined hundreds of Londoners at St. Paul's Cathedral to hear the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra and Chorus present the Beethoven Symphony Number 9. This concert was part of many events scheduled to celebrate America's birthday, called "U.S. Bicentenary" in Britain. They spent an evening with Mr. and Mrs. James Fox and baby daughter, Rachael, in Hertfordshire. Mrs. Fox is the former Rebecca Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wright of Canyon.

Deputy Saves Baby's Life — A small baby's life was saved Wednesday morning through the efforts of a Randall County Deputy Sheriff.

Cliff Longest, who works from the Bowie Street annex, in south Amarillo, said Mrs. Jack Hamon of Amarillo ran into the office with a four or five month old girl that was choking and turning blue.

He immediately slapped the baby on the back, began mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and revived the child.

When asked the name of the child, Longest said he was too busy to find out.

Job survey planned here

Local representatives of the Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of employment in this area during the work week of Aug. 16-21, Percy R. Millard, Director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Dallas, announced today.

The survey is conducted for the U.S. Department of Labor in a scientifically designed sample of approximately 70,000 households throughout the United States. Employment and unemployment statistics based on results of this survey are used to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the Nation.

For example, in June the survey indicated that of the 94.6 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 87.5 million were employed. The Nation's unemployment rate was 7.5 percent, up from 7.3 percent in May but substantially below the recession peak of 8.9 percent reached in the second quarter of 1975.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Interviewers who will visit households in this area include: V. Dean Claney, 3410 Kingston Rd., Amarillo, Tx., 79109 and Frances M. Cheek, 300 West Hastings, Amarillo, Tx., 79108

ROTC . . .

As leaders, cadets in '75 ranked for the most part below the camp average. WT was ranked 3 out of a total of 64.

Military science instructors decided affirmative action was needed to improve performance for the next group.

Accordingly, changes to the ROTC program were made in three major areas: orienteering training, physical conditioning, and leadership development.

To give students experience in that area, Major Dan Telfair, assistant professor of military science, set up an orienteering club and encouraged cadets to participate.

The club obtained permission to hold meets in Palo Duro Canyon State Park and practiced there before participating in other meets.

In addition, the physical education department offered a spring course in orienteering, taught by Maj. Telfair.

Military science professors began stressing physical conditioning by requiring juniors and seniors headed for summer camp to take more PT tests during the fall and spring semesters.

Also, instructors insured students received information about, and practice in, leadership roles during ROTC labs during the 1975-76 academic year.

Then, to top off the changes made in fall and spring training for the camp-bound cadets, Telfair designed and conducted a two-week training program held early in the summer.

The voluntary program began after the spring semester had ended. All cadets who attended advanced camp this year participated in the training.

They were joined by some cadets planning to attend ROTC basic camp and others who were MS I (freshman) and II (sophomore) cadets last spring.

Each day's training consisted of inspection, a minimum of one hour of PT training and a run of one mile or more.

Students ran one mile the first day. Each day the distance was increased by a quarter mile, until they were running 2½ miles per day.

They also received instruction in squad tactics, patrolling and operation orders. Each cadet had an opportunity to act as platoon leader several times during the two week period.

The cadets had practice in drill and ceremonies and observed fire techniques.

A national guard unit from the local area instructed students in the use and care of individual and crew-served weapons not available on campus.

The six to eight hour session allowed cadets to become familiar with weapons to be used at camp.

All in all, instruction was aimed at teaching what the students needed to know to do well at camp. Laakso said, "From a psychological standpoint, we told them exactly what to expect at camp."

Aside from using reports about last year's camp, instructors interviewed cadets who attended that session and used their recommendations for improving training.

Instructors particularly stressed areas the cadets from last year thought gave them the most trouble at the summer camp.

Last July, when Laakso took over as professor of military science, he set two goals for the department. First, to increase overall enrollment in ROTC at WT.

Second, he hoped to improve the image of the cadet corps on campus. He said the two are so interrelated it is hard to say where one leaves off and the other begins.

The unit now seems close to attaining those goals. Enrollment appears to be up, and instructors have indications of increased acceptance of the corps on campus.

Military science instructors keep closest watch on the size of the MS III (junior) class.

Contracts between the Department of Defense (DoD) and colleges and universities with ROTC programs require each participating school to commission a minimum of 15 officers per year.

Normal attrition rates for college programs will cause most campuses to lose between two and five cadets sometime between the beginning of the junior year and commissioning.

Because of this, DoD established, as a criteria for campuses to be considered to have a workable program, 17-20 cadets minimum in the MS III class.

The Department of the Army then set up a policy of placing on probation any school with fewer than 20 cadets in its MS III class.

WT was placed on probationary status in the fall of 1975 for having fewer than the required number of MS III cadets enrolled.

However, Laakso anticipates having between 20 and 30 students enrolled for the MS III class this month, eliminating the problem for WT.

Eleven sophomores were enrolled during May, seven completed basic camp this summer, four more completed a summer program that included MS I and II classes and several veterans are expected to enroll in the junior program this fall.

Several students who were formerly enrolled in ROTC at WT but dropped out of the program have come back and are expected to enroll this fall.

Laakso said, "In all cases, they have initiated the contact. I attribute this to one thing: that's the improvement of the ROTC program."

How successful was this year's program? The student with the lowest overall score at advanced camp this summer scored higher than the average for all WT students who went last year.

Except in orienteering, the students finished well above the camp average, and in orienteering they were about average.

Elementary registration

New students to Canyon who will attend elementary school at Gene Howe or Rex Reeves are asked to register anytime until August 19, when classes begin.

All newcomers are urged to register as soon as possible and to have a birth certificate and immunization. All elementary students need to have three doses of diptheria tetanus with one after their fourth birthday and three doses of polio with one being after his fourth birthday. Also, one dose of rubella is needed and one dose of rubeola or if the student has a history of having it. All of these doses are to be vertified by the student's physician or by a public health clinic.

Regular registration is scheduled for August 17.

Students at Rex Reeves will register by grade level and room assignments will be made on August 19.

Bibles with all players, coaches, officials and dignitaries present. Of the 29 games played, there was an average of 20 exchanges per night.

Kendrick said, "The response was unbelievable. We were overseas for 37 days, played 29 games and put on 40 clinics."

He said that there were probably 30,000 spectators in attendance and twice the games were shown on national television in Peru and Columbia. The viewing audience was over 5,000,000 and around 20,000,000 people heard it over the radio.

Each state had a basketball federation to govern the games. They organized the basketball schedules for each city.

According to Kendrick the teams overall were not very good. The games were played against national players or national teams. International rules, as used in the Olympics, were used with two twenty minute halves.

Each team had at least one good player, but they were not exceptional by college standards, he said. Panama's team probably could compare against anyone except a team like UCLA, but their professional players were nothing as compared to that in the United States, he said.

Kendrick felt like he had gained from the tour. He said, "It gave me an opportunity to see advantages, athletically as well as other ways to see how much better it is here in the United States. We live in a country with sanitary living conditions, decent food and clean water. Some people over there die because of weather due to lack of shelter."

"It makes you appreciate your country. It was pleasant to hear the openness of the people to listen to what we said.

"However, they are open and willing to listen to communism as well. The experience will help me to work better with kids at school and in basketball. It has given me more confidence to speak to others about their spiritual well being.

expects the nomination fight to be very close.

"I'd like to see Reagan in on the first ballot, but I'm afraid it will take two," she said.

Reagan has more Southern support than he is being credited with by the national press, Mrs. Gregg said.

"It still is to close. People are still changing their minds and will be right down to the wire."

"We've talked to people from Mississippi and they are not changing to Ford as much as the national press says they are," she said.

All the Texas delegates are bound to Reagan, she said.

"We're not locked in by a unit rule, but the delegates are morally obligated to support Reagan."

Randall County's voting delegate is James E. Brandon. Attending also from Canyon will be Mr. and Mrs. Evetts J. Haley. The group will leave Aug. 13 and return Aug. 20. The convention opens Aug. 16.

For cases pending, 14 were given continuances and the other 19 were awaiting hearings.

Of 267 contacted, 108 whites lived with both natural parents as compared to 21 for Mexican-Americans and seven for blacks. 45 of the whites lived with their mother and a step-father while this was true in two cases for blacks and one for Mexican-Americans. 36 white youths were living with their mother only while only two Mexican-Americans did.

Truancy accounted for 94 of 474 referrals according to Mann. Running away accounted for 88 of the youths and 52 were for violation of the drug law.

reported on greatly increased earnings.

The consolidated net income for the second quarter of 1976 amounted to $10,299,523 or $1.11 a share compared to $5,986,805 or 67 cents a share for the same quarter of 1975.

In the first six months of 1976, the consolidated net income was $21,307,470 or $2.29 a share compared to $12,573,719 or $1.42 a share for the same period last year.

Watson said recorded gas sales volume for the first six months of 1976 increased by about 12.5 percent.

McMorries is expected to again represent the cities at the September hearing. The City of Hereford since last fall has led the fight to reduce the 100 percent gas pass through rate.

Canyon city manager Glen Metcalf has said the city will financially support its share of legal costs incurred in the fight. Commissioner J. Pat Stephens is the Canyon representative to the steering committee of the West Texas Utilities Committee, formed several years ago when the gas pass through cost was begun.

District third

American Legion team gains 15-4 record

The Canyon American Legion baseball team recently completed their 1976 season with a record of 15 wins and four losses to finish third in district.

The Eagles lost two games in the district tournament but Coach Bill Hickman said that it was one of the best seasons that the team has had.

Several players had an outstanding season, one of which is Matt Madewell who had a batting average of .500. He had eight doubles and two triples and six home runs in district play and added one more in the tournament.

Joe Luquette hit a .414 and had five doubles and a home run. Ron Hickman had an average of .349 including three doubles and two triples, Randy Langen hit a .257 with five doubles while Hoss Ratliff had a .245 with four doubles and one triple.

Jay Huey had an average of .293, Ken Cooper hit at .278, Terry Martin finished with a .409, Ronnie Whitney's average was .286, Rick Cooper hit at .250 and Gregg Pitt finished the season with two doubles and one home run.

In the pitching department, Hoss Ratliff and Ken Cooper finished with a record of 3-0 while Tracy Martin was 2-0. Terry Mick finished at 3-1 and Ron Hickman won three games against three losses.

Hickman led the team with an ERA of 1.60, Mick had the most strike outs with 38 and Cooper pitched a no-hitter during the season against Plainview.

Coach Hickman said, "Although we faltered in the tournament, it seemed like the boys just got tired of playing. We participated against all AAAA schools and to come out with a 15-4 record is good. I am real proud of the boys. We had beaten Plainview four times but they beat us in the tournament."

The Eagles lose Ratliff, Cooper, Huey, Martin and Greg Taylor as well as the whole infield but Coach Hickman pointed out that there are some good players coming back.

Welcome neighbor

When school-bells ring this fall, Evelyn Spencer will begin daily trips to and from Claude.

There she will teach a special education resource class that will include kindergarten through the eighth grade students.

The Spencers moved here in June from Dodd City in east Texas after Andy Spencer was promoted and transferred to the Soil Conservation Service office here.

Andy, who graduated from Tarleton in 1970, plans to work toward his master's degree this fall at West Texas State University.

Evelyn, a 1971 graduate of East Texas State, wants to wait until next summer to return to school because she will be teaching this fall. She has also taught in Dodd City.

In their spare time, Andy enjoys hunting and fishing while Evelyn prefers handicraft work and art. She also likes to work in her garden, which she said she will miss here this summer.

Other newcomers to Canyon this summer include Dr. and Mrs. Harry Loveless of 2417 11th Avenue and Mr. and Mrs. James Wiley Harp of 2617 13th Avenue. The Spencers live at 2606 12th Avenue.

McDonalds has fire

A grease fire at McDonald's Saturday morning caused little damage but left workers with a mess to clean up.

Canyon firemen answered the fire call about 9:15 and quickly doused the flaming grill.

But workers faced a long hard day dumping ruined oil, cleaning cooking surfaces and washing away the residue from the fire extinguisher.

Newcomer Evelyn Spencer

Jean Cavitt is outstanding leader in educational field

Jean Cavitt has been named an Outstanding Leader in Elementary and Secondary Education for 1976 and is now eligible for one of 10 unrestricted grants of $500 to be announced in September.

Mrs. Cavitt is the daughter of former county treasurer, Ruth A. Hill, of Randall County. She is a graduate of Canyon High School and holds the bachelor and master's degree from West Texas State University.

A teacher with Dumas Public Schools for 19 years, Mrs. Cavitt will be moving to Morton where she is to teach sixth grade this fall. Her husband will be serving as the principal for Morton Public Schools. The Cavitts have two daughters: Kelly Leigh who is a freshman student at Texas Technological University in Lubbock, and Jennifer who is a junior public school student.

Course offers chance to learn what in the world is going on

Adults who want to find out what in the world is going on will have a chance to do so inexpensively this fall.

A course in contemporary civilization taught on Wednesday night at WTSU can be audited for $15, although no university credit can be earned with an audit.

"I think this course might be the sort of thing adults in the community might like to audit," said Dean of Arts and Sciences Dr. Theodore D. Freidell, who will teach the course.

There are any number of courses each semester taught at night that are particularly suitable for auditing, Freidell said.

"Many times people in the community don't take advantage of the university courses," he said.

The $15 audit fee for a three hour course is comparable to the costs of community education courses, he said. There are no attendence requirements but permission from the instructor and the department head must be secured before auditing.

The contemporary civilization course, at the sophomore level, will examine first the major events and then the trends since 1945. Included will be the environment, social conditions and issues, political changes, the use of terror and the impact of the mass media.

The course has not been taught at WT in several years.

Night classes have long been familiar to part-time students who go to class after work. This fall, for the first time in recent years, basic biology and geology to satisfy part of the science requirement will be offered.

The night schedule has an assortment of courses for graduate or undergraduate students.

Some departments offer more night classes than others. It is likely that a prospective artist or accountant can find a worthwhile class at night. The art department offers 30 different night classes and the business administration department provides 31 night classes.

But a budding journalist or actor is out of luck at night. Neither journalism nor theatre night classes are offered this fall.

Fall semester registration will be held Aug. 27-28.

Registration schedule for jr. high

Junior high registration will begin Aug. 17 with seventh graders scheduled from 9-11:30 a.m.

Eighth graders will register on Aug. 17 from 1-4 p.m.

Ninth graders are scheduled to register on Aug. 19 from 9-11 a.m.

New students may come Aug. 9, 10, and 11 to register. They will need a birth certificate and a report card or withdrawal from their former school.

Gym uniforms this year will be green for seventh grade, blue for eighth and red for ninth.

Regulation uniforms are on sale at Canyon stores but any shorts and shirt of the correct color will meet the requirement.

6th grade band meeting

Sixth grade students interested in band and their parents are invited to attend meetings set at the Gene Howe Elementary cafeteria on Aug. 12 at 7:30 p.m. or Rex Reeves all purpose room, Aug. 13 at 7:30 p.m.

J.W. King, band director for Canyon public schools will discuss the sixth grade band program, rental-purchase plans for instruments, and set individual conferences for students and parents.

Students unable to attend the meetings may still participate. Students will register for band at the regular school registration and conferences will be set during the school term.

Residents' brother dies

The brother of two local residents, Robert C. Cosby, 89, died recently in Cochise, Arizona where he resided.

He was born January 17, 1887 in Texas and was reared in the state before becoming a well driller in New Mexico and Arizona some 30-40 years before retirement.

Survivors include his wife, Purrie of Cochise; two sons, Eschol of Cochise and Cecil of Mills, Wyoming; 6 grandchildren and 5 great grandchildren; a brother, C.N. Cosby of Canyon and sister, Ida Billingsley, also of Canyon.

Garner wins golf tourney

Bryan Garner, who will be a senior at Canyon High this fall, won his flight at the State PGA junior golf tournament in San Antonio last Thursday and Friday.

Garner shot a 71 on Thursday and had a 75 on Friday to take the win by five strokes over his nearest competitor.

He has been playing in tournaments all summer and was one of the members of the district championship team at Canyon who qualified for the Regional tournament.

Bryan is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Gary Garner of 8 Country Club Drive in Canyon.

HER DREAM TRIP has begun for Jackie Telfair, a junior this fall at Canyon High. For years, she has wanted to go to New York City. This summer, she worked at the canyon and saved her money to pay for the trip.

Today she and her father flew from Amarillo for four days in New York. Jackie plans to divide her time there between shopping, sightseeing and Broadway. Although tickets to the hit musical A Chorus Line, that swept the Tony Awards this year, are sold out, they plan to see a new Neil Simon comedy, California Suite, the long running spoof of the '50, Grease, and the anniversary revival of My Fair Lady.

Also high on her list of musts are trips to the UN building, Wall Street, The Museum of Modern Art and the shopping district.

another cousin of the bride.

The bridal attendants wore shell pink Quiana Greek garden gowns with molded bodices featuring high necklines with cord ties and butterfly cap sleeves. The crescent styled waists held soft gentle skirts which extended to brush floor length. They wore white hats with pink daisies and baby's breath and pink ribbon accents as they carried white baskets filled with light pink daisies, carnations and burgundy mums with light pink ribbons.

Kenny Hughes of Kress was best man. Groomsmen were Paul Blake of Canyon, Mike Shapley of Canyon, and Jimmy Fox, brother of the bride, from Tulia.

The bridegroom wore a plum tuxedo with dark velveteen trim and his attendants wore black tuxedoes with pink shirts matching the dresses of the bridesmaids they escorted.

For her daughter's wedding, the bride's mother wore a light green floor length dress with lace jacket and corsage of pink cymbidium orchid. The bridegroom's mother wore a pink floral floor length dress with a pink cymbidium orchid corsage.

A white lace tablecloth draped at the corners with pink bows covered the bride's table for the reception in the church parlor. A large bouquet of pink and white daisies with baby's breath centered the table and a pink slush punch was served with the three tiered wedding cake which was encircled with cupids and pink roses and topped with white doves. Serving at the bride's table were Miss Nikki McCarter of Canyon and Mrs. Scott Bliss of Amarillo.

The groom's table was laid with a white lace tablecloth and centered with the unity candle from the marriage service. Coffee and matching chocolate wedding ring cakes decorated with pink roses and embellished with the couple's names, was served at the table by Mrs. Shirley Miller of Canyon, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Kenny Hughes of Kress.

A rehearsal dinner honoring the couple and their wedding attendants was held at the El Camino Restaurant in Tulia Friday evening.

The couple took a wedding trip to Dallas and will be establishing their home at 508 A. South Austin in Tulia. For travel, the couple wore coordinated western suits of brushed denim which had been made by the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Wayne Powers. The bride complemented her outfit with apple green accessories and a corsage lifted from the bridal bouquet.

The bride is a 1974 graduate of Tulia High School and is currently a junior student at West Texas State University majoring in elementary education. She is an active member of Delta Zeta social sorority.

A 1971 graduate of Canyon High School, the bridegroom graduated from Amarillo College in 1974 and is now employed by the Texas Department of Public Safety in the Highway Patrol Office.

But inexpensive energy in the past made it logical to ignore the extra investment such a home would require. Now with energy costs rising, it becomes more and more important to use effectively every bit of energy we consume. The TOTAL ELECTRIC ENERGY EFFICIENT HOME has construction features which result in savings of 40% or more on heating and cooling costs when compared to previously accepted standards for total electric construction.
